SEO Manager · Freelance · Odessa

Septembrie 2009 - Septembrie 2011 · 2 ani 1 lună

When I was studying at university, during my fourth year, I wanted to create something interesting and accessible to everyone on the internet. It had to be a website, but I wasn't sure what kind exactly. After some time, I decided that since I, as a computer enthusiast, often needed certain software that had to be searched for, why not create a website with that software?

I read a book on creating interactive websites (I don't remember the exact title or author). Then I registered my first domain, got hosting, and created a website using the DLE CMS with special software. I had a few pages, and I liked the idea and its implementation, so I decided to expand the number of categories and pages with various computer programs.

It was interesting until I added Liveinternet analytics to the website, where, apart from my own visits and a few clicks from my classmate to whom I showed the website, there was no other activity. That's when I realized that I wanted other people to know about my website. It was beautiful and had a lot of useful content, but no one knew about it, and that needed to change. In search of information on how to increase the website's popularity, I learned about an SEO forum where people write a lot of interesting things and offer various services. A friend of mine recommended Igor Ashmanov's book "Optimization and Promotion of Websites in Search Engines," which changed my world :)

After implementing the acquired skills, on-page SEO, and working on increasing the site's link mass, the website started receiving around 4,000 to 5,000 visitors per day. A group of trusted authors was working and posting content on the site.

In 2010, upon learning about my website creation skills, one of my acquaintances asked me to create and promote an online store for household appliances. And that's what I did. My first "client" project was shop-life.org. I have completed the tasks from domain registration to achieving high positions in search engines.
