About me

I love playing the guitar, reading books, and playing computer games. I am often enticed by the curiosities around me and therefore I am also interested in general knowledge. I have a keen interest in general knowledge and like studying a variety of subjects, including history, culture, and science and technology. I discover that this information makes it easier for me to comprehend and appreciate our world. I am a calm and composed person and I like to find happiness in small things
